Gras Day and Valentine's Day celebrated and remembered Tuesday as one of the local events. The local crowd gathered in the local parade and the Bay High Gymnasium. The parade was colorful and the floats showed a great deal of imagination. The parade was decorated in white and the masks were in attractive red and brown suits. A jazz band on the float giving a cardi Gras touch to the parade. The group riding on the float was a small float that bore the name "Small". The name was most apt as it carried the child, the adults who were on the float.

Flea Control
Dogs and cats might bring fleas into your home. The best way to prevent this is to get rid of the fleas on your household pets.
For fleas on dogs, you can dust with a 10 per cent DDT dust or spray with a 1 per cent DDT spray.
Do not put DDT on cats, as they may poison themselves by licking the DDT off their fur.
For cats use 1/2 or 1 per cent DDT or pyrethrum dust. Regular garden derris dust will give good control.
Sometimes fleas get in cracks in the floor, in spaces around baseboards and under carpets. A 5 per cent DDT household spray on these surfaces will give good control.

GARDENING
If you haven't already done it, now is a good time to get that home garden underway.
Late January marks a real beginning of the spring gardening season. It is planting time in Mississippi.
Here are some hardy and semi-hardy vegetables that can be planted now and in early February: Carrots, lettuce, onions, Irish potatoes, spinach, turnips, cabbage, mustard, radish, tender greens and English peas. These are all January vegetables.
Some additional January gardening jobs call for getting the garden plot cleaned out, ready for planting, checking seed catalogs and buying seeds enough for two plantings of each vegetable.
It is also time to plant tomato, pepper and eggplant seed in hotbeds for late March plants.
STRAWBERRY CARE
Fertilize and mulch strawberry beds in February. A light application of 5-10-5 or 6-8-8 fertilizer should be made before you mulch the plants.
Apply the fertilizer when the leaves are dry. Use around 4 pounds per 100 feet of matted row plants, or 2 pounds for single row plants.
For mulching, place pine needles, oat straw or other material around the plants and completely cover the ground. This will protect the fruit from dirt and will also help conserve moisture by reducing grass and weed growth.
Beef is plentiful right now, and

WINTER WHEAT ACREAGE
SEEDED AND PRODUCTION
Winter wheat seedlings in Mississippi in the fall of 1955 totaled 28,000 acres, according to the Mississippi Crop and Livestock Reporting Service. This is 3,000 acres less than the 32,000 acres seeded a year ago. A 1955 winter wheat crop of 522,000 bushels is indicated, based on conditions as of December 1, and other factors. Harvested production in 1955 amounted to only 286,000 bushels, but less than usual proportion of acreage was harvested for grain.

Try some of the lower priced cuts like short, short and short ribs. These require longer cooking and a little more preparation, but are good budget stretchers.
Shank makes an excellent broth. Here is how to prepare it: Brown the shank in a little of its own fat, then cover it with boiling water and simmer until the meat is cooked. Leave the meat in the broth overnight for more moisture and more flavor. The shank cuts are better than cutlets.
Shank cuts make good pot roasts. Brown the meat in a little fat before adding water. When the meat is done, remove the bone and let it stand in the rich broth overnight. This is ideal served over hot biscuits.
Short ribs usually contain a lot of fat. Roll them in flour, then brown them in a small amount of fat. Cook the ribs in a covered roaster in the oven. They are good served with a tart vegetable like sauerkraut. Add the sauerkraut to the ribs and heat well before serving.

celestial faces at the sight of a little lost one, sealing the rarest parts of Heaven, carrying with him his earthly treasure of toys and animals that he loved best. He was told that these things were not meant for the Celestial City, and in exchange was given beautiful Silver Wings, thus becoming the Littlest Angel.

The story was narrated by Cynthia Brown, SJA student, with the Littlest Angel portrayed by Jo Mary Artigas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Artigas.

Becky McCollister, Pass Christian, was the Cherub leader and little cherubs were Vallon Seuzeneau and Debbie Dionisia. Dancers were Ann Morlan, Jeanne Jones, Hugh Engelhorn, Mary Gottschalk, Jeannie McCollister, Toni Breazeale. Ballet dancers were Sheila Heitzmann, Marsha Blaize, Carolyn Buckley, Patsy Favre, Cheryl Ducombe, Dale Russell, Judy Compton, Ann Gottschalk, Kathleen Mooney, Sharon Piazza, Nina Roland, Nita Erwin, Linda Hamilton, Sue Porter, Donna Wiggins, Mary Ann Becker, Julie Delph, Fahey Ann di Benedetto, Jeanne Green, Sharon Griffin, Erin Heitzmann, Becky Prevou, Mike Reinike, Suzette Brown, Elaine Nicaise, Brenda Fricke, Pat Bellais.

All dances were directed by Mrs. Dan Russell.

Past Kings of the Ball acted as members of the floor committee. Committees included Mrs. Walter Gex Jr., Dr. H. A. Eldredge, Mr. Howard LeTissier, Mr. E. M. Brignac, Mr. N. L. Carter, Mr. Rene de Montluzin, Mr. Roger Boh, Mr. E. N. Spence and Mr. Vic Leveau.

The maids were all gowned in scintillating billowing white fashioned with sweeping floor length skirts, fitted bodices, and enhanced with rich embroidery of brilliant white sequins. Opera length white gloves were worn and crescent shaped bouquets of American Beauty roses glittering with silver and tied with silver ribbons were carried. Each maid was presented a handsome gold plated compact with an inscription of the year and the ball from her Highness, the queen.

Following the presentation of the members of the Royal Court, a fanfare of music provided an entrance for last year's Queen, Mrs. Lily Ann Ruel, who was met by her King, Mr. Sam Favre. They ascended the stairway to the stage, where they attended his majesty in awaiting the arrival of his queen.

To the strains of the imperial "Pomp and Circumstance" the ornate doorways were flung wide to herald the approach of the queen. Her entrance was a regal one, escorted by Mr. Edouard Carrere, honorary chairman of the ball.

Attired in a gown of white imported chantilly lace, embroidered in brilliant and made on fitted lines flaring out into a sweeping skirt, Mrs. Lozano was a stately and queenly figure. She carried a magnificent bouquet formed of a dozen pure white orchids, an her mantle was of delicate pin colored velvet bordered in ermine. Pink satin roses and pin hyacinths were applied on the mantle, which was lined in pink and silver lame, and attached to a Medici collar of sparkling brilliants. Her crown and sceptre were of fiery brilliants which blazed the reflected light, and she wore a diamond bracelet and necklace.

At midnight the king and queen summoned their guests to a supper at the Bay Waveland Yacht Club.

The club was decorated with exquisite white flowers and carnivals colors, and the ables handsomely appointed. Music for dancing was provided by an orchestra from New Orleans, and the revelries lasted until the small hours of the morning.

She is an ardent lover of roses, and on one of her visits to Bay St. Louis, showed colored slides of her famous rose gardens at her New Jersey home.
